Water Study Under Way, Hahn Says

A feasibility study is under way toward re-establishing a special water replenishment zone in the west basin of the County when it expires in 1964. Supervisor Kenneth Hahn announced recently.

Flood Control Chief Engineer M.E. Salsbury is conducting the study.

Originally established in 1954, the zone was continued for another five-year period in 1959.

Hahn said a resolution by the West Basin Water Assn. has urged the zone be given another five-year term starting July 1 of next year.

A small section of the City of Los Angeles is also included, Hahn said.

Within these areas, a five-cent tax per $100 assessed valuation is levied to finance features of the flood control district's water conservation program which will benefit the communities involved.

Three Categories
Hahn listed the following three categories to which the funds have been devoted:

The zone is part of the district's over-all program of water conservation designed to save and protect the county's dwindling water supplies for over half of its daily needs, the supervisor added.

Drainage Included
All portions of the following cities are included in the zone which is called Zone II to distinguish it from similar zone in southeast Los Angeles County: Torrance, El Segundo, Manhattan Beach, Inglewood, Hermosa Beach, Redondo Beach, Hawthorne, Lawndale, Gardena, Rolling Hills, Rong Hills Estates, Palms, Palms Estates, and some unincorporated territory.

1. Purchase of imported water for the barrier program along the West Basin. This function was assumed by the Central and West Basin Water Replenishment District in February, 1961.
2. Construction of the West Coast Basin barrier project to halt further brine intrusion of fresh water supplies along the coastline.
3. Investigations concerning the reclamation of waste waters by the flood control district at the Hyperion plant at El Segundo.

CHANGES IN SIGNALS OK'D

Mification of existing traffic signals at Palos Verdes Drive North - Western Ave intersection in Lomita was authorized this week by the board of supervisors.

Supervisor Burton W. Chace said bids for the project, which also includes installation of pre-timed signals at 120th St. and Felton Ave will be opened June 18.

Project plans and specifications were prepared by the county road department under direction of N. H. Templein, road commissioner.

Work, to be completed in September, will include vehicle-actuated traffic signals and pedestrian signals.

"Palos Verdes Drive North and Western Ave. are both major country highways carrying more than 30,000 vehicles daily," Chace explained.

"The completed project will provide a safer and smoother regulation of the increasing traffic volume," he said.
